

Thomas Jefferson Middle School

Violence Awareness Week 2017

October 16th - 20th

Violence Awareness Week is a NJ Department of Education required week that schools across the state participate in. Thomas Jefferson Middle school will take part in the following activities in support of Violence Awareness Week.

“Take a Stand Against Violence” support board will be posted outside of Ms. Barbone’s office for students to sign to support Violence Prevention throughout our school.

10/18/2017: Rockaway Borough Police Officer: Christopher Richardson visited grade level lunches to discuss the importance of making good choices, preventing violent behavior and staying safe.

10/20/2017: Students will have an extended homeroom to watch motivational video relating to positive behavior and school climate

- Students and staff will be given heart stickers to spread love throughout our school instead of hate/violence.
